1. The amendment filed March 17, 2004 has been entered.
2. The indicated allowability of claims 1-4, 6-15 and 25-26 is withdrawn in view of the newly discovered reference(s) to Proksch et al US 2004/0000189. Rejections based on the newly cited reference(s) follow.
3. The delay in making rejections thereon is regretted.
4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

5. Claims 1-4, 6-11, 13, 15 and 25-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Proksch et al.

Note especially the abstract, the drawing, paragraphs, 7-9 and 12 and the claim. Also note 60/332,650 the provisional application for Proksch et al provides support the claimed subject matter herein in Proksch et al

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 12 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Proksch et al.

Proksch et al does not specifically teach varying either the pitch or volume to alert the operator but its teaching of audio signal alerting in paragraph of would have made it obvious to have done so since those are the common means of varying an audio alert signal. The knob is also not specified to here a range greater than 180 degrees but since tactile feedback knobs that have such a range are known it would have been obvious to have used one in a system similar to that of Proksch et al to allow greater movement control.

8. Claim 5 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
